Iximche

Iximché was a PostClassic capital of the Kakchiquel Mayan group. It is located 50 miles northwest of Guatemala City in Highway, it is near the town of Tecpán. Drawing upon earlier PreClassic and Classic traditions interwoven with rituals adopted from the neighboring Nahua- Pipil, the Kakchiquel created a unique cultural blend thriving for over three centuries until their defeat at the hands of the notorious Spanish Conquer Pedro de Alvarado.

The ruins of Iximché are composed for four large plazas that define distinct ritual and residential compounds attached end to end along the plateau. Each plaza has from one to three temples, a number of surrounding palaces, and numerous small platforms intended for various ceremonial uses. The Kakchiqueles were governed by two kings who were elected from among four lineages to which each Iximché citizen claimed membership. The last of the kings were Lord Beleje Kat, and Lord Kaji Imox who allied himself with the Spaniards in an effort to avenge themselves on their K'iche rivals.

Street Food Tour

In a nocturnal atmosphere, this is the perfect culinary experience for you. An adventure full of flavors and colonial history that you cannot miss! The gastronomy of Guatemala is characterized by the fusion of two great cultures. One of its main bases is corn, the tomato used in the elaboration of the various “recados” and “chirmoles”.

You will have the opportunity to taste exquisite dishes, a mixture of ingredients and flavors, like the chuchitos corn mixed with a tomato sauce, which is filled with beef or pork; Enchiladas, corn tostadas served with ground beef and tanned vegetables that are garnished with a boiled egg and tomato sauce.

Avocado and bean toast.

If your taste is sweeter, you can choose the rich plantain rellenitos, which consist of a dough made from plantain, stuffed with beans, which is fried in oil and sprinkled with sugar.

To accompany these sweets you can opt for a delicious atol de elote, a sweet and hot drink that is prepared with corn grains, water, sugar and cinnamon

INCLUDES:

- Round trip transportation
- Professional authorized guide
- Tasting of typical local food
- A drink (natural, soda or pure water)

Tikal (one day)

Tikal is the largest excavated site in the American continent and Guatemala's most famous cultural and natural preserve...and like all puzzles without answers, it fascinates everyone!

This majestic archaeological gem comprises 222 square miles of jungle all around the ceremonial center. It took the University of Pennsylvania 13 years to uncover about 10 square miles of structures at Tikal. However, much of it is still left to be unearthed. Tikal remained a mystery for centuries, after being abruptly abandoned by the Maya over 1000 years ago and overgrown by a relentless jungle.

Itinerary:

- Shuttle from Antigua to national airport
- Flight from Guatemala to Flores
- Arrival in Santa Elena's airport
- Transportation from airport to Tikal
- Bilingual guide and entrance fee to the park
- Tour through the ruins
- Lunch at the hotel served at restaurant (no beverages)
- Transportation from Tikal to Flores
- Flight from Flores to Guatemala City
- Arrival at Guatemala City airport
- Shuttle from Guatemala to Antigua

Our advice is to bring mosquito repellent, sunblock, and preferably a fresh but long sleeve shirt and long legged pants, as well as a hat or cap. Carry your passport.
